Ramanathan joins Sterling Holiday as MD

D GOVARDAN

Chennai

IN WHAT could be termed as a homecoming after a long gap, Ramesh Ramanathan has moved to Sterling Holiday Resorts as new managing director. Until recently, he was CEO and managing director of Mahindra Holidays and a member of the group executive board of Mahindra.

Ramanathan had earlier held a four-year stint, between 1991 and 1995, with Sterling Holiday & Resorts, which is credited with popularising the timeshare concept in India, but ran into financial difficulties in the late 1990s.

At Sterling, Ramanathan will be responsible for consolidating the company's operations and guiding its future growth in the rapidly growing holiday and vacation ownership industry in India.

He has around 35 years of experience across diverse consumer industries such as paints, building materials, hospitality, internet, tyres and retail. Of this, around 16 years were in the vacation ownership industry.

"Since 2009 the Sterling board and management have been focused on putting the company back on a growth path by building its resources, investing in resort renovation and inducting a more experienced professional management team to head key functions," said Sidhartha Mehta, non-executive chairman, Sterling Holiday & Resorts.
